

SEEN, HEARD AND TOLD

By W. W. WHITAKER
When he feels like it.

To our growing announcement column this week, we are adding the names of Red Trussell, another candidate for the Beat Two supervisor, also adding the name of Charlie Worsham. Byron Hunter also got his name in the pot. The first two named have statements herein; Byron's statement is on ice. Wednesday mornings, Buck Denley whom Charlie Worsham beat in a close race in 1951, came by to add his name. Buck's card is also shown elsewhere. John Keeton, running for county prosecuting attorney about winds us up for this week.

Red Trussell seems to be a mighty nice young man, keen in appearance and bright in mind. Most everybody already knows Byron, Buck, Charlie, and John Keeton.

To the tender mercies of the people of Grenada County, we leave the political fate of all of them.

I want to congratulate the committee charged with the selection of a Mother of the Year in the person of my cousin-in-law, Adelaid Townes. I did not nominate her, but will say that she was one of my nominees. She and Junius have a lot of kids, take good care of them, keep their noses clean and send them to church and to school regularly and those are some of the many functions of a good mother. Then, too, Adelaid is daughter of the late Cowles Horton, a lifelong friend, and wife of one of my favorite cousins. I am very happy about the selection. If anyone cares.

Our old friend, W. F. Bond, whom us used to call the school trust and talked awful about in the paper, dropped in to see us Wednesday morning. He is now the chief pension-giver of the state and, even if I used to talk about him awful, I like him and will say, in justice to him, that he is a bigger and better tale-teller than is our own Squire Bryan Baker, who is pretty good at that. Pension-giver Bond says he is 78, but he surely don't look it or act it.

Notice to the C. of C.'s new questionnaire: we are going to close, or stay open, as we damned please.

If you get a copy of this week's issue and don't know where the hell it came from, and why, it was probably sent you by Mrs. Lige Abel of Beat 2.

Ex-Squire M. O. Gray of Beat 3 came into the office Wednesday morning and took out a subscription and we welcome this ram returned to the fold.

Folks, as little as you may think of the matter, our nation may be in another world war before we get out another issue. This is an extremely critical situation and we may as well get used to seeing the trouble in the far side of the world breaking out at any minute. There is little that you and I can do about it except trust our leaders to do the best they can.

Ben Sanders and Tom King are what Keene Huffington calls "showing signs" of running for office.

I have not marked off many others, such as Jim Elliott, Jeff Staten, L. C. Proby, John Bull, Rice Pressgrove, Inman Rounsaville, McCune Talbert and Squire Pickle.

William Goza, my oldtime friend, came in Wednesday, gave us a $3 check and said send the GCW to Miss Ann Goza in Jackson. Guess she is one of William's daughters. Anyway, welcome, Miss Ann.

I have no kick about Roy Adams. Pretty soon, Roy will have a paved state highway either by, or on some of our land at Oakberry. I think Roy has done a pretty good job.

I read a piece in the Commercial the other day that the NAAOP was charging Burns Strider, who has been doing the same work in Holmes County that he did here, with discriminating against the Negroes there, but Burns, according to the article, said he had been fair and honorable in his treatment of the Negroes.

For the first time since 1906, when she, Margaret Trutty and I were graduated at OHS, I saw Amie Weir who dropped in to see me. Amie is still as fat as a match and, apparently, good for another 60 years. One remarkable thing about the Class of '06 is that every one of them are living and, more remarkable still, that all of them live right here in Grenada County.

Brittie Denley Announces For Circuit Clerk

To the People of Grenada County: Four years ago I had the privilege to serve for one term as your Circuit Clerk and for this honor I shall always be grateful to you.

More than any financial reward that may go with the office I have a sincere desire to serve as your Circuit Clerk again.

I feel that the experience I had while in office should qualify me to serve you better.

Most of you know me already but for the people who do not, I am forty years old, married and have two children, own and operate a small grocery store. I am looking forward to seeing each and every one before election in behalf of my candidacy for this important office.

I am aware of the duties and responsibility of the Circuit Clerk's office and if elected I will dedicate myself to carry them out.

I shall wage a vigorous and clean campaign with no ill will or ill words about any opponent I might have.

Thanking you in advance for any assistance in my behalf and hoping to be your next Circuit Clerk.

Respectfully,

Brittie D. "Buck" Denley.

John Keeton Announces For Co. Prosecuting Attorney

I wish at this time to announce my candidacy for the office of County Prosecuting Attorney of Grenada County, Mississippi.

As most of you know, I have lived here all of my life and am interested in the development of our County, and in the preservation of law and order.

If elected to this important position, I pledge that I will do all in my power to fulfill the duties of this office.

I feel that I am qualified for this

The legislators of Mississippi are treading on dangerous ground as they are now talking about raising the taxes on snuff, the extreme unktion of us po' folks. The legislators are courageous men, running for office and, on top of that talking about raising the cost of snuff, which is another staff of life for many of us.

He did not have it in his own piece, but I told John Keeton, a candidate for county attorney that I would add, with no additional cost to him, that I turn him over to the hazardous mercies of the people of the county.

Things are looking up for the GCW. Four new subscribers on Wednesday, two of which have been mentioned, and Lt. Bob Weir overseas, and Rev. J. Q. C. Jones, a young colored minister, constitute the day's crop.

At the last minute Thursday, a fellow who aint even crippled a little bit, was in to announce as candidate for Circuit Clerk. We will get his name in the pot next week.

position by reason of my experience, background and training.

I intend to make an intensive and extensive campaign and will do my best to see each of you in person between now and election time.

Any consideration and help that you might give me will be very much appreciated.

—John T. Keeton.

Mrs. T. E. Heath Dies In Memphis

A widely known and popular former resident of Brunswick, Tenn., and Grenada, Mrs. Thomas Edgar (Ed) Heath, died at 12:45 a. m., Monday, January 24, 1952 at the Baptist Hospital in Memphis. Mrs. Heath, the former Eva Griffin of Brunswick, moved to Memphis five years ago after the death of her husband and she and her sister, Mrs. E. C. Watkins, and Mr. Watkins, lived at 1834 N. Parkway.

Born in Brunswick, member of a pioneer Shelby County family, Mrs. Heath was the daughter of the late John P. and Sue Peebles Griffin. She lived in Brunswick until her marriage to Mr. Heath, when she moved to Grenada, where he and his brother, the late Cas Heath, founded Heath's Gents Furnishings more than 60 years ago. The firm is still operated by his brother's children.

Mr. and Mrs. Heath had one son, Edwin, who died when he was eight, stricken as they were returning to Grenada after a visit in Brunswick. After his loss, Mrs. Heath devoted herself to making others happy and her lovely Grenada home became a mecca not only for her wide circle of friends, but especially for young people. Her genial, fun-loving nature and keen sense of humor, her love of beauty and sincere interest in people made her a favorite in the community. She was a member of First Methodist Church of Grenada and long active in Circle 1 of the Women's Auxiliary there.

So close were her ties to her family that, after the death of her husband, her sister and her husband, who had lived in Oklahoma City, disposed of business interests there and moved to Memphis so that they could all be together.

She leaves her sister of Memphis, and her brother, J. B. Griffin of Brunswick.

Services were held at 1:30 p. m. Tuesday at Garner Funeral Home in Grenada. Rev. Felix Surphin officiating. Burial in family lot in Odd Fellows there. National Funeral Home in charge locally.

J. P. Coleman Speaks

Hon. J. P. Coleman, presently serving as the state's Attorney General, and no stranger in the Grenada County court house where he served many years as District Attorney, seemed very much at home with friends when he spoke in the interest of his candidacy. His introducer, Hon. A. M. Carothers, now dean of the local bar, spoke very felicitously about the speaker.

Mr. Coleman took the members of his large and enthusiastic audience ces and Elba Gandy; Mr. J. W. Tugwell, Mr. T. B. Snowden, Mr. O. W. Shelton and Mrs. Margaret, Griffin Cunningham.

behind the scenes of his activities since he has been a attorney general at state level.

He spoke of his undying devotion to the cause of Democracy and of his never-ending activity for the cause of states' rights. He modestly reminded them of things and events that happened right here in this county when he sought to serve the people at the district level.

He spoke very convincingly of his ideas of what he would do, should he be honored with the guidance of the state.

Modest and convincing always, he appeared to have clinched further his hold on the people of this county.

Further Court News

The grand jury was at work all day Tuesday and the petit juries were hearing less important cases on that day.

Perhaps the case getting the most general interest was the case of Wes Hopgood of Carroll County, charged with making some kind of disturbance at Holcomb a year or so ago. Hopgood was fined $500 and given 6 months imprisonment. The latter was held up. He pled guilty.

This session of court, called a "fighting and stealing" court, either ends this afternoon or tomorrow.

Our Nature And Need

Lesson for January 30, 1955

WHEN the Christian church talks about "Man" we mean all men. Following the Bible—and science too, for that matter—we believe that the human race is one race, not two or several. A child who is old enough to get out of his front yard knows that human beings come in different varieties, and a grown person who has been around the world at eye-level with the people who live on the ground, knows much better than Dr. Foreman the child does, what a bewildering lot of varied types the human race is. Nevertheless we Christians believe that each one of us has something in common with all men and women, living and dead. The caveman whose fingerprints 30,000 years old are still to be read, Caesar and Hitler, Saint Paul and the loafers in the grocery store, the Queen of England and a black cannibal in the rain forest, these are all part of one human race. In spite of all the differences, can anything be said of all of us which is true of all of us?

God's Design for Man
The story of creation, however you may interpret it, includes certain truths about man which are of the greatest importance. One is that man is here on this earth not by accident but by the intention and will of God. Man does not casually emerge into a world and a universe to which he is badly suited. He is rather placed by God in a world which has been made ready for him as a place to live and love and achieve. Another truth is that man is expected to become master of this earth, not to be mastered by it. And a third most important truth of all: Man is created in the image of God. Theologians, one regrets to say, have quarreled a great deal over the meaning of this. Leaving all quarrels on one side, the least we can say is that "image of God" means that in some way man reflects the nature of God. Man has a capacity for knowledge, for aspiration, for love, for fellowship with God, such as no other created thing possesses. This may or may not mean that the first human beings on this earth were in any way perfect. It may or may not mean that the image of God has been totally defaced at the present time so that there is not a trace of Godlikeness left. But it surely means no less than that by God's intention for man-kind there is something Godlike in each man.

Man Against Himself
A second truth about man—all men—important, is that all men are sinners. That is to say, not only does no man fulfill all the good possibilities God has in mind for him, but men in their very nature are corrupt, twisted, they want what God does not want, they want what they themselves would not want if they knew what they were doing. A sinner is bent on doing the very things that will destroy him. As we view the world today we can see this is true on a vast scale. As a modern poet has expressed it, man is the slightest rider on a blind horse galloping as hard as he can go to the edge of the bottomless pit. Against all the optimism which suppose that if you leave men alone they will come out all right, the Christian church affirms that if you leave men alone they will come out wrong. We have brains enough, maybe, cleverness and genius enough, take us by and large, to get out of our troubles. But we don't have patience, unselfishness, wisdom, love or self-sacrifice enough. Individually and as a race we are in a mess, and the name of it is Sin, and the end of it is Destruction.

Why We Need God
Men want many things. But what we most need is God. We need God to show us what he has in mind for us. We need him to show us what we ought to be. We need him to show us what is wrong with us, and where, to show us where we missed the road and how to come back to it. We are in this constant struggle between our best and our worst. We are our own worst enemies and if no one comes to our rescue, our worst selves will destroy our best selves. We need to be changed; and only God can change us. We need power.

Swapping Cars

Swapping cars has got to be complicated business. Mabel and I have had that fever for a week or more. There is at present such an infinite variety of cars, all of them good cars, that it has got to be pretty complicated, especially when one has to decide whether he is going to swap at all.

Then, which of the many colors to get, and whether to get white-wall tires or black Heaters, radios, automatic transmission and extra tires are most often wanted and these accessories are almost taken as a matter of course.

It was a lot more simpler in the Model T days when about the only extras to consider were top, extra tire and bumper. Every thing was black then.

The main consideration, always, is how can I pay for it?

Mother Of The Year

Since the Polio Drive folks have asked for nominations for the Mother of The Year of this county, I sent in my nomination who is Mrs. P. R. Dale of Grenada and am not ready to change my nomination.

Since the field of selection is not limited by religion, color, or any such things, it appears to me the geographic limits of the county itself are the only limits. The judges who are to name the individual have a big and fertile field and, within that area, there are many, many mothers whose names, so far as I know, have never been brought up.

In this field of discussion I have already mentioned such fine mothers as Elizabeth Miller Grant, Adeinid Town's and Mrs. Sam Williamson, I should mention others and not even scratch the surface. Mrs. Fred Little at Osberry has raised a fine brood of children. Mrs. Nadeau here in Grenada is another good one. Marguerite Rayford of Grenada has done a fine job as wife and mother.

Oh, there is a very, very wide field for selection. This was written before the selection was made.

Clothing Business

My reply last week to the C. of C.'s questionnaire about when to close, how long to continue, etc. directed to me, and mailed back was, of course, more or less facetious; that we adopt the Spanish custom of the siesta, closing at noon and taking a nap until 4; add delicious holidays to state and national holidays and take all of them; direct folks to Coffeeville or Calhoun City to buy what they need; and to order from Sears-Roebuck. All of that was facetious, yet there was a lot of sense in such sarcastic rally.

Every businessman in Grenada is a free man and can, and should keep such hours as he elects to keep. One free man should not criticize another free man, if one wants to close and the other wants to keep his business alive and rolling.

Just take Heath, Friedman and Trusty for example. If, say, Heath wants to close up one day and go fishing, that, in my opinion, is no concern of Trusty's and Friedman. If our bunch here at the Grenada County Weekly wants to take off Tuesday, and if Grimes and his crowd prefer to get off Wednesday, such an arrangement is the business of Grimes and me and not of the Chamber of Commerce, or anybody else.

I think Roosevelt started it, but people in general, devote too much attention these days to trying to "live on the government", in seeking a "pension", and in taking a holiday.

What About Coleman For Governor

A man asked me why I was for Coleman for Governor. The answer is simple and direct. I know Coleman and like him.

Those are the primary reasons, if the truth is told, for most men voting for a certain man - that "I know him and like him."

Many of us are prone to answer such questions by giving complicated reasons.

There is a vast variety of breakfast foods. Some folks like one kind; some, another.

The same line of reasoning applies to the choice of snuff, cigarettes, wine and everything else in the world where the individual is called on to choose one from a variety. He chooses the one he knows and likes.

If Coleman is elected, I feel like that, if I went to the Governor's office, Coleman would greet me as "Hildy, Whyte". Instead of giving me a vacant stare indicated that he wanted to know, "Who is you"? Going to the Governor's office is something that I am extremely unlikely to do. Let it be said here.

Being "for" Coleman does not mean that I am "agin" any of the rest of them, nor do I desire to say anything ill of the rest of them. Flaws could be found, I am sure, in every one of them, including Coleman.

"Next Week's" Stuff Is Piling Up Again

We have a basket to put our "copy" in. Into this basket we put all written articles supposed to go into the paper. As time goes on and as such stuff piles up, we soon get to the time when our limited space does not permit all the stuff to get into the paper. So we mark certain of this stuff "Next Week."

But, when Next Week gets here and when time and events have moved on, the stuff held over is again postponed again until Next Week.

Sunday morning, we looked at the basket and, once more, we found a big pile of meritorious stuff, all marked "Next Week."

It is my job, as it is the job of every editor, great or small, to make an appraisal of the relative news value of all such stuff and print some and throw away some, and, to the best of my ability, that's what I do. It is a great pity that all people are not editors, so that everybody could be satisfied. Then each fellow could read in print the things that, he thought, should be printed.

It is just one of the facts of life, however, that just a few folks are editors and, as a result, many thoughts of "purest ray-serene" die in birth, laying in the copy basket of some unappreciative editor.

The GCW, frankly, is a very small newspaper and does not even pretend to do everything it should do, nor does it pretend to get everything in the paper.

I recall some years ago seeing a sign in the Grenada Bank about the fellow being praised who did the best he could, with what he had.

In a mild way, we have tried to do what that fellow did - the best we can, with what we have.

Skull Moss

This ancient ingredient of Unguentum Sympatheticum, collected from the skulls of the dead, may have been the forerunner of the modern antibiotic-producing molds. Many odd treatments have been found to contain a practical application within their maze of superstition. Great strides have been made in the field of medical science.

RURAL DIAL TELEPHONE SERVICE GETS BIG SEND-OFF ON COAST

PEARLINGTON—Approximately 350 people attended ceremonies here on Tuesday as service was started over the new rural dial telephone facilities just completed by the Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph Company to provide telephones for 130 homes and business houses in a wide area of Hancock County in and around the communities of Pearlington, Logtown, Napoleon and Gainsville.

J. M. Phillips, Mississippi Manager for Southern Bell, was one of a number of men and women of prominence who had a part in the celebration. He pointed out that the project placed in service here today is one of approximately 100 projects which the telephone company will place in service for rural Mississippians this year.

"Mississippi's continued progress and growth industrially and agriculturally," Mr. Phillips said, "has called for a stepped-up program of telephone expansion and improvement ever since the materials and labor to do the job became available back in 1946. The fact that we have over five times as many rural telephones in Mississippi and more than two and one-half times as many telephones, rural and urban, as we had on January 1, 1946 constitutes the best evidence that we have been hard at work."

"I think the people of our state ought to know that the big job has been made a lot harder by the constantly increasing costs of everything needed to provide telephone service," Mr. Phillips continued. "For instance, a pole that cost us $35 before 1946, costs us $52 this year; and wire, cable and labor has increased even more in cost. In fact, the overall cost of adding a new telephone in Mississippi has risen from $221 in 1946 to over $342 today."

"Inflation is one thing that has increased the cost of telephone construction in Mississippi," he stated. "Another is our state's scattered population. The fewer the homes to the square mile, the more poles, wire and cable it takes per telephone, and naturally the higher the cost of construction. It takes more employees to each 100 telephones, too, where telephones are scattered and so it costs us more to provide service.

"We are going right ahead providing new telephones as fast as we can to keep pace with Mississippi's progress," he concluded, "but we think Mississippians ought to know it's costing your telephone company more nowadays than ever before."

Other prominent people taking part in the program were the Reverend Father Raphael Toner who gave the invocation; C. W. Fountain of Pearlington, who delivered the address of Welcome and Mayor John Scaffidi of Bay St. Louis who responded.

SELF-IMPROVEMENT AIDS ARE NOW AVAILABLE TO ALL COMMUNITIES

Many Mississippi communities are busy with self-improvement programs these days, and now have available a "home-made, practical guide" to help do the job—thanks to some 26 interested public and private agencies engaged in various phases of development work.

Pooling their experience and know-how, the agencies have issued a 96-page guide entitled "Tomorrow's Community," designed for use by any municipality seeking to take an honest look at itself, locate its weak and strong points, and start a well-planned self-improvement program.

"Tomorrow's Community" was two years in the making. It was started by the Mississippi Economic Council, an organization representing a cross-section of the state's economy, after numerous organizations and individuals had expressed a desire for some practical tool for communities to use in development work.

To acquaint key agricultural, business and government workers with the guide, a series of meetings are being held throughout the state. Eight such sessions have been held, while four are scheduled in southern Mississippi early next year.

At these meetings, the leaders review briefly the publication and consider its application to their local communities. They then go home, hold a meeting with top leaders, decide on a course to take, and then put the guide into action.

"Suggestions in the guide are not offered as strict patterns to fit all communities," H. H. Griffin, Meridian utility executive who is chairman of the MEC's community development committee, says. "There is a need for flexibility in community organization, because what works in one place will not necessarily work in another."

He also points out that rural-urban lines are fast disappearing in the state, and that successful development programs take in both the urban centers and their surrounding rural areas and communities.

"Tomorrow's Community" clearly points out these facts, and offers some sound suggestions in getting a local development program underway. Here are a few of the major ones:

Don't undertake a program that is too large. Start small, and keep the area within limits that are close-knit and manageable.

Be sure to have a good executive, or top committee to direct the over-all program. Don't appoint any committee until there is a specific job for it to do. And before the program starts, certain facts need to be secured.

Fact Gathering
The guide stresses securing factual information on communities, and especially basic data which might be of value to any industry or business interested in expanding or locating in the community. Too many times, the publication states, local communities don't know themselves.

"Many of those engaged in securing new payrolls for communities tell us that there is a need for more basic information for communities to have about themselves," Mr. Griffin states in explaining the guide.

"But the information should be factual and important. Here are a few do's and don'ts in fact-gathering: Collect specific Mississippi communities are getting some concrete tips on how to organize and conduct self-improvement programs through a new service of the Mississippi Economic Council in cooperation with various other state and private agencies. Meetings such as these help launch them on programs of development. A 96-page Guide, "Tomorrow's Community," offers step-by-step tips.

and usable information. Don't rely on generalizations and half-truths. Be completely honest in looking at your community.

"Don't disregard the opinions of newcomers and visitors. They often see a community more clearly than old-timers. And don't collect so many facts the organization becomes a storage bin of interesting but unrelated information."

In getting a program started, "Tomorrow's Community" suggests that citizens in the following occupations usually know how to gather facts, and work in community programs: accountants, attorneys, bankers, chamber of commerce executives, clergymen, county agents, engineers and surveyors, home demonstration agents, employment office personnel, manufacturing executives, newspaper people, physicians, public welfare workers, teachers, and utility executives. There may be others in your community.

The Checklists

The guide carries a total of 13 checklists for communities to use in making a self-analysis of local conditions. The checklists are under the headings of: agriculture, beautification, business activities, county government, education, family living, health and sanitation, industrial development, municipal government, population and manpower, recreation and culture, spiritual welfare, tourists, transportation and communication, and youth.

Under each checklist numerous questions are asked, and the answers are either already available, or can be secured without too much effort. Most answers to the questions can be given by rating local conditions as "good," "fair," or "poor" under the particular topic. Also, the checklist asks if local action is needed in the particular field. If so, local citizens are asked to work toward improving the weak spot.

At the beginning of each checklist there is carried the names and addresses of public and private agencies available for assistance in solving problems in the field. It is suggested that these agencies be called upon if help is needed.

When the various committees assigned to the 13 checklists have completed their fact-gathering job, then the community is nearing the time for all-out action in making improvements.

"It's not an easy task, but it is one which will mean better communities in Mississippi," the groups backing the program believe.

"In the case of human illness we all believe that the first step in effecting a cure is to obtain an accurate and complete diagnosis. That is also the first essential step in treating community illness."

"It should also be emphasized that there must be complete honesty and sincerity in this self-examination, even though the answers may shock and dismay some of the community citizens."

"Also, experience has proven that the most successful programs are those conceived, developed and executed by home-folks. This guide is aimed at stimulating the local action necessary for improved communities."

Cooperating Agencies

Here is a list of the public and private agencies which screened the contents of the guide before it was published, and who stand ready to give communities assistance in launching local development programs:

Agricultural and Industrial Board, Agricultural Extension Service, Board of Health, Delta Council, Department of Agriculture, Department of Education, Department of Public Welfare, Employment Security Commission, Forestry Commission, Gulf, Mobile and Ohio Railroad, Illinois Central Railroad, Mississippi Bankers Association, Mississippi Farm Bureau, Mississippi Municipal Association, Mississippi Power Company, Mississippi Power & Light Company, Mississippi Southern College, Mississippi State College, Mississippi Valley Gas Company, North Mississippi Industrial Development Association, St. Louis-San Francisco Railway Company, United Gas Corporation, United Gas Pipeline Company, and University of Mississippi.

The premiere of the Grenada film is scheduled for Thursday, January 27 at the Grenada Theatre. There will be another showing Friday, Jan. 28.

The movie, which was started some months ago, when John Brewer was chairman of the Publicity Committee, was made for use in acquainting the public with its many advantages.

The film attempts to picture the beauty of Grenada homes and gardens, the dignity of her churches, the progress of her schools, her modern industrial plants, the development in agriculture, the activities of the social and civic clubs, including all phases of living that go to make Grenada the progressive and pleasant town that it is.

The purpose of this movie is to publicize the advantages of Grenada and not to advertise any particular business or type of business. Since it was impossible to film every concern, a few representative ones that lend themselves best to a film of this type were chosen.

After its premier at the Grenada Theatre, the film will be available for use by the various civic and social clubs.

This picture is a 16mm sound color film using a new sound process that has been developed for this type of picture.

This film was made by Mr. Brewer with the aid of Juel Batson, E. M. Grimes and others. Mrs. Morris Hubbard wrote the narration, and Monroe Looney is narrator.

The filming of this picture not only required many hours of time and hard work and the cooperation of the people of Grenada but much expensive equipment, which is the property of Mr. Brewer and other interested citizens, all of which was donated for use in making this movie of Grenada. The actual cost to the Chamber of Commerce organization was the price of the film.

Mr. Brewer states that he believes the film will fulfill the purpose for which it was intended and prove of great interest and educational value and that the experience gained from this picture will be of great value in making other films to publicize Grenada. Already over 20 news items have been shown on Memphis and Jackson TV stations.

M. P. & L. Co. Hold Annual Meeting Here

Over 30 employees and their families were guests of Mississippi Power & Light Company Monday, January 24, 1955, when the Company held its annual division meeting in Grenada, at the City Hall.

Following an informal dinner and the introduction of guests, C. E. Jones, director of personnel, presented safety awards to foremen whose crews had not been involved in a lost time accident during the past year. Those receiving awards were Sidney W. Russell, Foreman and his crew members, D. W. Spence, Lineman; C. H. Green, Apprentice Lineman; E. L. Evenson, Apprentice Lineman; J. E. Beach, Groundman; F. C. Smith, Groundman; L. N. Spence, Truck Driver, all of Grenada.

For their outstanding safety performance, the North Central Division was awarded the Company's safety trophy. This signified that this division had the best safety record of any of the nine operating divisions of the MP & L Co.

Forest Breazeale, local MP&L Co. salesman, was awarded a five year service pin.

Highlighting the meeting, held to review past accomplishments and explain future objectives, was an illustrated talk by Baxter Wilson, company president. "We have just completed a notable year in the electric industry," he told the group. "The Diamond Jubilee year of the electric light, it marked 75 years of amazing growth and change since Thomas A. Edison's great discovery. It was also a significant year in its own right. During 1954 the industry's 50 millionth customer was added, the five millionth farm was connected with electric service and on the very anniversary day of the incandescent lamp, October 21, the country's 100 millionth kilowatt of generating capacity was put into operation."

Mr. Wilson then explained that 1954 was also a significant year in Mississippi's electrical progress. Outstanding in this progress was Mississippi Power & Light Company's dedication of Delta Steam Electric Station last September. The $22,000,000 plant is the largest of its type ever constructed in Mississippi. Mr. Wilson said.

"And, we made other progress in the state during the past year," he added. "Not only did we increase our generating capacity to 450,000 kilowatts, nearly twice the present demand, but our total investment increased to over $100,000,000. This, I believe, is demonstrable faith in the future of Mississippi."

The Company's president then commended the group for their part in making this progress possible. "Only because of your efforts in helping build the communities in which you live as well as your capable and loyal contributions toward the company's progress during the past 31 years, have these achievements been possible," he said.

Then he called on the employees and their families for a renewed consciousness in helping to fulfill the company policy "to render first class service to customers at the lowest rates which are economically sound; to give stable employment at fair wages and under good working conditions, and to pay those who have invested their savings in his enterprise a fair wage on their investment."

C. H. Green, lineman for the company, was awarded an electric skillet as a door prize.

Special guests at the annual meeting were:

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Oliver, and Mr. and Mrs. G. P. Cossar.

Timber Stand Improvement Proves To Be A Good Investment

Most of the forest land in Grenada County is producing far less timber than it is capable of growing. According to one of the latest surveys, the average acre in this part of Mississippi is growing less than 100 board feet of timber per year, compared to its capacity of growing around 300 board feet per year. Why is our land not getting the production of which it is capable? There are several reasons, but one of the biggest is that thousands of acres of young pine - our fastest growing, most valuable species - are being suppressed by hardwoods which grow very slowly and are never very valuable in the hills.

This situation can be remedied by deadening the overtopping cull hardwoods and giving the pine a chance. Timber stand improvement work is not very costly and it will increase the income from your forest land threefold. In many cases ASC payments can be obtained to help pay the cost of treatment here must be prior approval from the County ASC Committee before beginning the work, if assistance payments are to be made.

In doing the actual work, trees under 8 inches in diameter should be poisoned, using either ammate or 2-4-5-T to keep down sprouting. Any trees over this size can be killed, using a two-hack girdle completely around the tree without much damage from sprouting.

If an assistance or advice is needed in laying out your work, notify Jim Cann, U. S. Forest Service, Grenada, Miss., or Gerald Stevens, Miss. Forestry Comm., Grenada. We will help you all we can.

Notice About Cotton Acreage

Grenada County cotton growers can arrange for official measurement of their 1955 far cotton-acreage allotments prior to planting time. The County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee announced this week.

To get the premeasurement service, which is being provided on a cost basis, a cotton farmer must file a written request with the County ASC office prior to February 28, 1955, says Mr. Carver, committee chairman. The rate to be charged for the service in Grenada County has been established at - $7.50 for the first 10 acres in the allotment plus $60 per acre between 11 and 25 acres, plus 35c per acre for each acre over 25 acres, and payment based on this rate must be made at the time the request for measurement is filed.

"The premeasurement is purely optional," says Mr. Carver, "and is offered as a service to growers who prefer to have an official measurement to use as a planting guide."

Investure Service For New Girl Scouts

On Friday night, January 14 at the First Baptist Church, an event which will live long in memory took place when 44 young ladies made their pledge to be full pledged Girl Scouts. With Mrs. Bardwell was Sherry Thomas and with Mrs. Tollison was Cathy Reed. Also in the receiving line were Miss Mary Elizabeth McNeill, president of the council, and Miss Mae Caldwell, treasurer of council.

The girls formed a horse shoe receiving line with color guards for the investure and Miss McNeill addressed them on the true meaning of scout ing. She then pinned each girl, giving the Scout hand shake and salute. The girls repeated with her in unison the Girl Scout laws.

Following this, delicious refreshments consisting of sandwiches, cookies and Coca Cola were served from a table decorated with greenery and gold trefoll and gold candles beautifully emphasizing the Girl Scout colors.

SEEN, HEARD AND TOLD

By W. W. WHITAKER
When he feels like it.

But, Squire Brynn Baker was telling a fine tale, too long to reproduce here, a tale that, Bryan said Proby told him. Bryan has not much to do but tell tales and run for reelection, so ask him about the fine tale.

I don't know what is going to happen, but I think Proby is still "smelling around" for what he considers is a better job.

We got out a lot of subscription statements last week. The first to respond, as was expected, were those who had already paid up.

We have before us a quarterly tabulation of activities of the Grenada County Health Department, but, while very interesting, it is too long for us to publish, especially when we have so many candidates to monkey with. Come around to the office and see it.

We go two renewals even before the subscribers got their mailed statements: Miss Bird Sharp, and neighbor and fisherman Dennis.

"You folks, quit telling me jokes to put in the paper about candidates. Running for office is serious business, usually involving a lot of money," tells Lamar Sledge over in Kemper County. The same advice goes for me.

I was saying last week that it would be a good thing for local politicians to read "That Reminds Me", by Senator Barkley, the master politician. As a matter of fact, I should have said, except the Worshams and Alber Clark. Barkley should come down here and see them. He could then add several hundred more pages to his book.

There aint no use in blaming us about the supervisors' pay not being printed in the allowances. We just print what Byron Hunter sends us. If we printed stuff that we just imagined we would lose our job as printer, and, first thing we knew, we would have a disagreement like we had when we talked so much about that contraption.

Rev. Frank H. Smith of Waco, in writing to get what we had to say about the death of his grandfather, Dr. Frank H. Smith of Greenwood, he was good enough to mail us a program of the funeral services, of which he was in charge. Every line showed how much he loved his revered grandfather and his message brought back to me how much we loved Squire Smith. You may recall that, at the time of his death, he was J. P. of Beat Two of Leflore County.

We are not only thankful to those who paid up in our recent drive to collect subscriptions, but are also thankful for those who called up and said "I have already paid; I have the cancelled check." A darn mailing list gets messed up mighty bad and we apologize for not being perfect, and promise to strive to do better.

Brother C. H. Evans said he paid up several weeks ago and we had never changed his date. His statements are true, and we will get to changing the date sometime pretty soon.

I got a fresh start in hair Monday of this week, and, while getting it from Sax Weir, intermixed with sage suggestions from Cliff Hamby, I got the latest low-down on folks and their politics and morals. Sax is in favor of everybody running. He says he may get a shave out of all of them who runs. Sax also paid his renewal for his wife.

The venerable Mr. J. B. Horn's condition has been giving great concern to his folks and to his many friends here lately.

You need not look in the OGW for the county board proceedings this month, nor, for that matter until about April. By mutual agreement between Byron Hunter and me the division of that business from the county has been changed from the wierd arrangement made when Brother Frank Jones and I were competitors. Therefore, if you are interested in finding out if supervisors' salaries are published, I advise the reader to look into the Daily Sentinel-Star in any month in this, the first quarter of 1955. If Byron turns them in for publication, I am sure that Brother Grimes will publish them.

Bill Cunningham, candidate for Circuit Clerk, and the fellow who broke the ice in this, the quadrennia!

rat race, was frank enough to say to me that he was primarily interested in getting a job. Most candidates, if pressed for an answer, would tell about the same thing.

Town Talk
BY FED ROBINSON

The R & R Magazine says, "It cost general hospitals $21.09 a day last year to care for the average patient whose bill came to $19.40 a day, the American Hospital Assn. has reported. The deficit being covered by charitable contributions and government grants. In some high-cost areas such as California and Connecticut, the average daily cost of institutional bed and board is edging close to the $30 a day mark. . . . Since 1945 the number of hospital employees per 100 patients has soared from 148 to 183 on the national average, while pay scales have doubled. This increase in employees results both from the more intensive care now given patients and the shortening of work weeks to meet the competition of private industry."

All this we think falls into pattern because of our new way of life. First people began to earn money and decided they would have that operation they had looked forward to for so long, also now they had the money they would just call the doctor any time they felt sickish day or night - the doctors became weary making house calls - found they could treat more people at their office and hospitals than they had time to see any way, so doctors have almost discontinued making home calls, so the real sick have to enter the hospital and the near sick have to sit in line at a clinic. You'd think this country was in the throes of the WORST health epidemic in history, but not at all. This country never before enjoyed BETTER health than right now. Its just that people are EARNING more and are not willing to put up with a pain or two, so they have something done about it. . . . and all that is good, it is exactly the reason we are on an average living much longer. we are protecting our health more. But if we want to dance we must pay the fiddler. . . . so it is costing money and a lot of money to enjoy all this care from doctors and hospitals. Hospital Care Insurance companies are straining with all their might to bridge the difference from our own purses to the total bills and its a lot of money and will probably come to more and more as this big country grows and grows.

SENTIMENTALISM: "The character or behavior of one guided by feeling rather than by reason. . . . Ah, yes that me, and I betcha underneath some of that pose of yours you too are often guided by feeling rather than by reason and why not? Sentiment is that part of us that keeps us loving things - including people - when if guided by reason alone we'd just forget the whole thing. For instance Ada and I will never live in Grenada, Mississippi again, quite probably we'd never see the place again, and if guided by reason we'd just forget we ever lived there or that we know anyone there. But, no, there is never a day or night passes that we fail to think of that little town and speak of the wonderful people we lived with for a few years and still love them very much. Ah, yes sentiment holds together people and things, and people and places, and people to people. Sentimentalism creates a lot of business or why would we spend all those millions at Christmas time, birthdays, anniversaries, for greeting cards, flowers and other remembrances. . . . "guided by feeling rather than by reason." Oh, there are times when we must be guided by reason. There are basic decisions we must make logically when we can and if we can, but like a pretty gift package - let us first wrap it in the tissue, tinsel, and ribbon of sentiment then cover it if we must with heavier stuff called reason and logic which when removed from the outside there will be found prettier and sweeter wrappings that convey our enduring and lasting feelings. . . . which are all important.

A big haul for an average family!

Take a look. Fifty-seven tons of freight hauled by rail for every family in the United States last year.

It moved as raw materials to make your automobile, your pots and pans, your clothing and a thousand other things. . . . as coal to generate electricity for use at work and at home. . . . as shipments to your local merchants. . . . as food for your table.

The Illinois Central Railroad handled more than 70 million tons of this freight—a big transportation job that makes clear the need for efficiency, dependability and economy. The Illinois Central did the job for an average of about 1¼¢ per ton per mile hauled.

Out of that 1¼¢ per ton-mile we paid our 34,000 railroad people, bought materials and supplies, paid federal, state, county, municipal and school taxes, bought new equipment and replaced property to maintain and improve our operations. All this was done before paying dividends to the railroad's owners.

You'll see signs of fresh progress all along the railroad during 1955. By reducing our debt and interest payments by half from what they once were, we stand better equipped than ever to work for you and all our friends.
